

GRIND IT!

What in Neptune's beard is an airdrop?

FREE COINS. That's basically what an airdrop is. It is the distribution of free coins to anyone who has done a required task for receiving the tokens (crypto-coins). These tasks may vary from liking twitter pages to joining discord groups, etc.

What do I need to get started?

Firstly, Your sanity, you need Your sanity. You'll come across so many slave projects and will need your sanity to keep you in tact and help evade slavery.

If the above mentioned is in good shape then all you need next would be the basic requirements to perform tasks, i.e. Twitter account(could use a burner, or as a matter of fact, use a burner for all of em), Discord account, medium account, reddit account, Telegram account, a crypto wallet and probably kiwi browser for some testnets airdrops.

How do I excel with airdrops?

Know how to identify slavery drops, avoid em and move ahead. Most Drops that require you to refer about a billion persons and get promised a pay on a specific date or to unlock the token for withdrawal on a specific date are most likely rubbish, they waste your time and you get nothing but high wasted hopes. Most airdrops that people cash out big from aren't from the popular blockchains, they are either new blockchains or existing blockchains that you don't see every day. But don't worry; Grinddoors is there to help you out with potential lambo drops.

What other ways do they make profits from crypto aside/ in conjunction with airdrops

- 1) Staking Updates : some airdrop holders who stake some of the received tokens also stand a chance of profiting greatly from it, or in a worst case scenario, incur losses from late swapping(swapping when the tokens' worth is now worth shit).
- 2) Staking as a whole: this is simply just you staking coins, it could be coins already worth something like ATOM for example or coins worth nothing, and the worst case scenario still remains the same.
- 3) Testnets: new projects would want you to try out their new website and would reward you with tokens, take em serious, some of em are worth BLOCK.

Do airdrops always work?

NO, but airdrops whose distribution is small are worth grinding for. It is a first come first serve scheme, don't wait for anybody, it is all a struggle, GRIND IT TILL YOU MAKE IT!
